THE MANUFACTURE OF SHOES.—The Asheville Express says: "There are only three firms in the State who manufacture shoes—two at Thomasville, and the other at Charlotte—Messrs. Sample & Alexander. We have been told by Mr. Sample, a member of the firm, that they are unable to supply their orders for shoes, which speaks well for the enterprise. We hope time has come when the Southern people will learn the importance of manufacturing at home, rather than buy from abroad; in this way only can we ever become a prosperous and independent people. Messrs. Sample & Alexander, of Charlotte, sell at wholesale, and should receive the home patronage."

"COMPLIMENTS OF THE SEASON."—We have been looking for it but not so soon. A colored waiter appeared in our office on yesterday evening with a large waiter, gently covered over with a white napkin, and remarked, "I have something for you."

We received it, and raising the napkin, we observed a card marked "Compliments of the Season to the Editors." We examined it and found that it contained some of the delicacies which can only be gotten up by the Prince of Restaurants, Mr. S. E. Spicer. We return our thanks and can assure you that the Southerner's office and its occupants will long remember the Proprietor of the Spier House.

CONSECRATION OF ST. PETER'S CHURCH, ORIGINATOR, &c.—The consecration of St. Peter's Church, in this town, says the Washington Echo, took place on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. There were present Bishops Atkinson and Lyman, with Rev. J. M. Geer, Rev. Isiah Harding, Rev. J. B. Christie, Rev. L. E. Horn, Rev. N. C. Hughes, Rev. S. S. Barber, and Rev. Dr. Marshall. The consecration sermon was preached by Bishop Lyman from the 8th chapter and 27th verse of 1st Kings: "Behold the heaven, and heaven of heavens, cannot contain thee; how much less this house that I have builded!" Although the day was a busy one, and the coldest of the season, the church was well filled. The decoration of the building was beautiful and reflects great credit upon the taste of the ladies of the congregation. The church is one of the landmarks in the State, and the congregation have just cause to be proud of it. It will stand as a monument to the energy, perseverance, and devotion of its members. They have overcome obstacles in erecting it, which might well have appalled the stoutest heart.

On Sunday following, Rev. Nathaniel

Harding, the present efficient and beloved pastor in charge of St. Peter's, was ordained to the Priesthood, the Rt. Rev. Thomas Atkinson, Bishop of the Diocese, preaching the ordination sermon from John xv, first clause of the ninth verse: "Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that you should go and bring forth fruit." The Bishop was assisted in the solemn services by the Clergy named above, and the Revs. E. Forbes, H. G. Hilton and R. B. Windey.

Mr. T. G. Gwynne has opened a boot and shoe shop on Main St., where he is prepared to do all work in the latest and most fashionable style. Good and get you a fine pair made for the New Year.

We call the attention to the notice of the School of Dr. R. H. Lewis. It is located in one of the healthiest regions of the State and on the R. & G. R. R. Dr. L. is a native of Edgecombe and a graduate of University of N. C. [1852] and of Medical Department of University of Pa. [1856]. He has had an experience in the school room of more than ten years. The morals of the people of the neighborhood of Forestville are, beyond question, of the highest type. Send on your boys.

What Does It Mean? Mr. Editor:—You are a reasonable man—you are also a fertile in invention. Then explain to an anxious reader the mystery connected with that picture at the head of your editorial column.

The coat of arms of the State speaks for itself—ditto the still on the left; but what is that fellow with the broad-brimmed hat doing, leaning on his axe? He seems to be expostulating with his companion for drawing cedar out of that oak tree. And if it is cedar, we join in with broad-brim and we expostulate too. Let it be known, Mr. Editor, that Edgecombe farmers have gotten so far ahead of all others that they extract cedar through a sick from oak trees, and you will have such a crowd of emigrants to your section that you will not have room for them.

You can't "get out of it," Mr. Editor, by saying "gnat sufer." Two barrels of maple juice for each article. You can't say the foundations of our credibility by such a picture.

Come now! Out with it. Is it cedar? ARCADE.

FROM WHITLOCK'S. Forging a Cotton Check—Painted Accident, &c.

WHITLOCK'S, N. C., Dec. 23rd 1875.

DEAR SOUTHERNER.—It does seem that some of the worst negroes infest the neighborhood surrounding this place. It is the want of administrative ability somewhere. On Saturday last, ten negroes engaged in conspiracy to swindle Mr. W. T. Taylor out of $400. It seems that one Cook, Evans, forged a cotton check on Mr. T., and got Sandy Thomas to do the trading and collecting. The vigilance and activity of Dr. Cobb, the gentlemanly clerk of Mr. T., soon ran up with the State and he is the back-up of the cotton check on Mr. T., and got Sandy Thomas to do the trading and collecting. The vigilance and activity of Dr. Cobb, the gentlemanly clerk of Mr. T., soon ran up with the State and he is the back-up of the cotton check on Mr. T., and got Sandy Thomas to do the trading and collecting.

Mr. Simon Summerfield, a clerk of the first of the cotton check, was arrested in jumping from a buggy last week, caused the discharge of a pistol he had in his pocket, the ball ranging up through the right arm, causing a painful but not serious wound.

To-day is perfectly lovely. In fine contrast to the freeze up we had a few days ago.

CATALINA, NASH CO. N. C., Dec. 18th 1875.

EDITOR SOUTHERNER.—It seems as people have forgotten the place that I have traveled over a large portion of Nash, but have I been preparing for Xmas.

Cotton fields are white yet, and I think the price of cotton will go to the top of the fields through the country. There can not be much cotton in the markets. Mr. Editor, better times are coming; farmers are getting independent, they can sell you corn and fodder from $2.75 to $3.00 per barrel, and fodder 50 cents, that goes to prove better times are coming.

Mr. Vick, of Hillsboro, was taken with his last night, and it was thought he would be dead by this morning. Mrs. Temple Battle is very low with dropsy, it is thought that she cannot stand it much longer.

We have a general moving in the country now. Mr. E. J. Braswell has moved to his new home near Tarboro. We have to lose out of our ranks so worthy a farmer as Mr. Braswell.

Mr. N. E. Schell closed last Thursday night. Grand time, a Soiree and dancing party. A large number of old Nash's finest daughters were there to witness the exhibition. I attended the exhibition at the close of Mr. Wilcox's School at Tarboro last Friday night. Everything past off smoothly and pleasantly. After the exhibition and tableaux was over, dancing commenced and had a nice time generally, after the best music in the State.

Mr. T. Jeff Braswell and John Richard Whitaker, of Catalina, and of Whitaker's Mill, will come to Tarboro to exhibit the picture of the cotton check to Edgecombe next Friday, Christmas-eve, to see their friends.

Catalina is rapidly building up. Several marriages is on the tapis, of which you shall be duly apprised.

Few are aware of the importance of checking a cough or common cold in its first stage. That which in the beginning would yield to a mild remedy, if neglected, soon preys upon the lungs. Dr. Pierce's Syrup affords instant relief. Price, 25 cents.

From Lafayette Daily Courier. A Valuable Work.

Dr. R. P. Perce, of Buffalo, distinguished in surgery, and the general practice in the profession he honors, has made a valuable contribution to the medical literature of the day in a comprehensive work entitled "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." While scientific throughout, it is singularly free from technical and stiff terms. It comes right down to the common sense of every-day life. Dr. Perce is a noble specimen of American manhood. He has sprung from the people; and with many sympathies in common with the masses, has sought to render them a substantial service in this great work of his life.

EDGECOMBE CO., N. C., December, 10th, 1875.

Mr. Editor:—I have read the President's Message to the present Congress. There are some things in it to admire, and ought to be taken into account without delay, others of doubtful powers that ought not to be legislated on without special care to the rights of States and people.

The President recommends that which he ought to have done, in these many years when both houses of Congress was with him and ready to do his bidding. But now that one branch is Democratic and not with him and to be controlled by him, he sees what he thinks ought to be done and calls on Congress to do it.

1st. To legislate and compel the States to educate all the children in their regard. The rights of fathers and mothers. Children are weary and dearest parents than they are to Governors of States or Presidents. I think Congress should not meddle with the rights of the separate States, nor should the States meddle with the right of parents and children. We parents claim the right to educate our children and want that right to remain. We do not want Congress to meddle with the rights of fathers and mothers, but to pass all useful laws to protect us in our right of speech, of persons or property and leave us to manage our own domestic affairs as seems right to us under the guidance of any money levied by our State. We want no meddling with our rights, but to be left alone in the enjoyment of them; too much law and government will ruin any people. Let Congress ferret out the rogues that have deceived the good and bring them to justice and open the way for honest and capable men to represent us, and to protect us in our rights, is what the people need. We look to Congress to protect our right, at home and abroad.

2nd. He is opposed to any Sectarian Teaching being taught in these Compulsory Schools, nor should any taxes be levied on communities in whole or in part, by State or nation being applied to support them. So are we. And we are opposed to them altogether, for State or nation. He recommends Congress to pass a law disallowing all voters after 1890 who are not educated. We suppose in his Compulsory School, but these literate ones now voting. This may do for dispo, but not for a free people—Congress should not meddle with it. At the commencement of this 20th century, our fathers, or a majority of them, were illiterate and could not read or write, my father and grandfather were of that class, but sent the writer of this to school in 1805, bought and paid for what little education he has, all others did, up to about the date 1820, about that time, the African began to infest the halls of the Legislature. Our fathers were more illiterate one hundred years ago than now, and no nation's history can show such growth and prosperity from three and a half millions of people, ignorant or educated. And now at the commencement of the second hundred year, to make illiteracy or ignorance a crime, to disfranchise free men, would be a disgrace to the name of our Father and the United States or nation, (as Grant calls it). An education bought and paid for, Five or Compulsory, never has made an honest man or good citizen, and therefore we are opposed to such meddling with the rights of men ignorant or wise. He recommends that Church and State be forever kept separate. So are we. And he recommends that all property and money held by the churches shall be taxed as well as the property of the people, and so say we, and will add to the list all monopolies, money and power, and we hope Congress will look well into the matter and pass no laws to burden any class, but tax all equal for much depends upon the action of this Congress, whether the people shall have freedom or slavery in this land. We believe the date, 1875, will decide the life or death of this government or being life and liberty to the States and people for the next hundred years, are the views of an old man.
